MESSAGE FROM DEAN JENNIFER ROSATO PEREA

The essential work of lawyers is to solve the most complex problems facing society today—not just in law, but also in business, global affairs, public policy and health care. I believe that being a lawyer, especially now, is one of the most rewarding, impactful and honorable professions. As the best problem-solvers, lawyers improve the lives of individuals, organizations, families and communities throughout the world.

To become an effective lawyer in today's complex and dynamic world, legal education needs to prepare lawyers who have a broad and deep perspective on legal issues, which includes understanding of theory, policy and other disciplines. Just as importantly, this perspective needs to be seamlessly integrated into an equally strong set of practical skills and deeply grounded ethical values.

This model of legal education is the DePaul experience.

At DePaul's College of Law, this experience is uniquely able to broaden and deepen your perspective through distinctive, innovative programs that build on our strengths and prepare our graduates for emerging fields of practice. This experience is enriched by the law school's integration throughout the global city of Chicago, which provides an amazing variety of opportunities for you to learn and apply what you have learned through experiential and public service opportunities. The experience also is enhanced by our engaged and distinguished alumni network, built over the last 100 plus years, and a strong, nationally recognized university.

Overall, the most important and distinctive aspect of the DePaul experience is our community—the faculty, staff and administrators who support and nurture each student's success. DePaul's College of Law provides a friendly and supportive environment, values your individual contributions and will help you realize your potential as a world-class problem solver.

All my best,

“FACULTY MEMBERS HERE ARE REMARKABLY ACCOMPLISHED IN THEIR RESEARCH, SCHOLARSHIP AND SERVICE. AT THE SAME TIME, THEY CARE DEEPLY ABOUT THEIR STUDENTS AND STRIVE TO PROVIDE A CLASSROOM ENVIRONMENT THAT IS BOTH SUPPORTIVE AND RIGOROUS. YOU ARE A VALUED PERSON HERE, NOT A STATISTIC.”

ALLISON BROWNELL TIRRES, PROFESSOR OF LAW

LEARN FROM ACCOMPLISHED SCHOLARS AND DEDICATED TEACHERS.

DePaul's law faculty is a dynamic blend of leading scholars and respected practitioners who inspire learning. Many professors are renowned experts and widely published in their fields, and many adjunct professors are prominent attorneys in Chicago. Our faculty focuses on innovative programs of instruction and brings real-world experience to the classroom. Through cocurricular activities, students and faculty work together in a wide range of disciplines to advance the law. Above all, our faculty puts teaching first.

- In addition to learning from the faculty inside and outside the classroom, first-year students have opportunities to connect with a faculty expert, who can offer guidance on suggested coursework and hand-on experiences to focus in a particular area of law.
- DePaul's law faculty ranked 64th in a 2015 study measuring the scholarly impact of U.S. law faculties.
- In the last three years, the faculty has authored more than 100 law review articles and book chapters and has published more than a dozen legal academic books.
- Our faculty also makes an impact in the broader legal community through important contributions in areas such as immigration reform, the protection of cultural property, patent law reform and U.S.-Cuba relations, among others.

EXPERIENCE COMMUNITY AT DEPAUL.

As a member of the DePaul family, you'll find a friendly and supportive law school community. The College of Law community is built on a rich history of academic excellence, initiatives that support diversity and inclusion, and opportunities for service and hands-on learning. Today, those core values are reflected in our programs and our student body.

- DePaul is well-known for welcoming students of all ethnicities, religions and backgrounds. The College of Law seeks diversity in student backgrounds and experiences to encourage and foster the exchange of different ideas.
- DePaul offers a broad range of public or community service opportunities each year. Law students collectively contribute more than 15,000 hours of service on an annual basis.

"DEPAUL LAW'S COLLEGIAL ATMOSPHERE MAKES IT EASY TO BUILD BOTH PERSONAL AND PROFESSIONAL RELATIONSHIPS. THE

DISTINCTIVE AND INNOVATIVE PROGRAMS

DePaul's College of Law has long been a leader in developing innovative programs that meet the educational goals of students, while serving the needs of society on a local, national and global level.

1871

As part of DePaul's collaboration with 1871, Chicago's prestigious entrepreneurial technology hub, College of Law students have access to programming, special events, workshops, lectures and networking opportunities with industry thought leaders.

THIRD YEAR IN PRACTICE HIGHLIGHT:

Our Third Year in Practice program, known as 3YP, allows a select number of students to complete general JD course requirements in two years and spend most of the third year of law school engaging in the actual and simulated practice of law. This unique third-year experience combines DePaul's clinical, simulation and professional skills courses with an intensive field placement.

In addition to courses tailored to professional interests, students can spend a significant part of their third year working in select government agencies, nonprofit organizations, law firms or corporations under the close supervision of a practicing attorney and a DePaul faculty mentor. 3YP provides students with the professional and academic support needed to transition into the practice of law. Students can apply to 3YP after completion of the first-year curriculum. Detailed information about 3YP is available at go.depaul.edu/3YP.

"THE AMAZING THING ABOUT THIS PROGRAM IS THAT ALL OF THE 3YP STUDENTS MATURED BOTH PERSONALLY AND PROFESSIONALLY MUCH MORE THAN I ANTICIPATED GOING INTO THE PROGRAM,"

JD CURRICULUM

FROM THEORY TO PRACTICE, READY TO MAKE AN IMPACT.

As a lawyer, you will face a unique set of challenges every day, from negotiating complex agreements to successfully arguing motions in court. That is why DePaul College of Law offers theoretical instruction that will prepare you to tackle cutting edge legal problems, along with creative approaches to practical skills training. In the classroom and in the field, DePaul's comprehensive curriculum prepares you for legal practice.

Graduation Requirements

Juris Doctor (JD) students must complete 86 credit hours to graduate from the College of Law. Full-time day program students are expected to complete the requirements for the JD degree in three years and evening program students should complete their degree in four years. Courses required for graduation are: Constitutional Law; Contracts; Torts; Civil Procedure; Criminal Law; Property; Legal Analysis, Research & Communication (LARC) I, II and III; Legal Profession; Preparing to Practice I and II; six (6) credits of approved experiential education courses; and an advanced legal writing course (legal drafting, senior research seminar or independent study).

Upon completion of the first year, students may transfer between day and evening programs. Evening program students who transfer to the full-time day program will need to complete some required courses in the evening of their second year. After completion of the first year curriculum, registration for both day and evening courses is open to all students.

Legal Writing

Our Legal Analysis, Research, and Communication (LARC) program begins with a rigorous three-semester sequence of classes and culminates in one of our advanced upper-level legal writing courses. Our writing curriculum introduces students to every facet of the legal reasoning process through research exercises and written assignments. Our legal writing courses also have dedicated teaching assistants, which means more personalized attention.

Specialized Legal Writing Sections

- Family Law
- Intellectual Property Law
- Public Interest Law

Academic Success and Bar Passage Programs

Our Academic Success Program (ASP) shows students how to develop the skills to excel in their first year of law school and beyond. ASP helps develop the skills to prepare students effectively for law school classes, written assignments and exams. ASP also helps students learn to manage the new demands of their first-year law school experience. Weekly workshops for first-year students, individual meetings with ASP Mentors, practice exam sessions, and an ASP study aid library are available.

BAR PASSAGE

Our Bar Passage Program introduces students to the bar exam and how to prepare for it. Preparation begins with developing strong academic skills and selecting a balance of upper-level bar elective courses, but it also encompasses some specialized workshops and courses.

The Bar Passage Program offers weekly workshops for students in their final semester. In addition, two bar skills courses for credit (Bar Passage Strategies and Multistate Performance Test Strategies) offer students the opportunity to develop and practice their bar exam skills using simulated bar exam questions.

EXPERIENTIAL LEARNING

PRACTICAL EXPERIENCE MAKES PRACTICING LAWYERS.

At DePaul, your legal education is about more than just studying cases and theories. It's about mastering professional skills and gaining the confidence you need to enter the legal profession. Our experiential learning programs provide you with opportunities to work with real clients on real problems, develop litigation and dispute resolution skills and participate in a variety of legal field placements. You will begin to develop the fundamental lawyering skills that today's employers demand, and you will make invaluable career connections.

Legal Clinics

DePaul has a long tradition of providing students with community-based service opportunities, and the College of Law exemplifies this practice through its clinical programs. Under faculty supervision and guidance, you will earn class credit working with real clients and engaging in legal practice outside the formal classroom setting.

- Asylum & Immigration Law Clinic
- Civil Litigation Clinic
- Civil Rights Clinic
- Criminal Appeals Clinic
- Family Law Clinic
- Mediation as Advocate Clinic
- Misdemeanor Clinic
- Poverty Law Clinic
- Technology/Intellectual Property Clinic (TIP Clinic®)

Trial Advocacy

DePaul has a strong reputation for graduating exceptional courtroom advocates. Our trial advocacy programs allow you to examine and practice fundamental trial techniques through simulated courtroom exercises, trial preparation, and bench and jury trials.

Dispute Resolution

DePaul's dispute resolution and mediation coursework offers opportunities to participate in classroom simulations as well as to mediate disputes in actual cases. Courses are designed to help you learn and apply effective advocacy during the mediation process.

Competitions

Students have a variety of opportunities to participate in national and international competitions focusing on appellate advocacy, trial advocacy, client counseling, negotiation and transactional law.

Field Placement Program

Since its creation in 1974, the Field Placement Program has become a central part of skills training at DePaul. Field placements allow you to gain valuable career experience and earn course credit while making important professional contacts. Your field supervisors are respected judges or attorneys who work closely with you, sharing their insights and expertise. Each student also is assigned a faculty mentor who provides additional direction and counseling. The program offers nearly 200 individual placements each year with various government agencies, members of the judiciary, nonprofit organizations and for-profit organizations in many areas of law. Recent student placements include:

JOINT DEGREE PROGRAMS

JD/LLM

DePaul's JD/LLM (Juris Doctor/Master of Laws) program gives you an opportunity to develop extensive knowledge and practice skills in a specific area of law, earning two degrees in as few as three years of full-time study. Students simultaneously earn a JD and an LLM, an internationally recognized postgraduate law degree, in one of four areas of concentration: Health Law, Intellectual Property Law, International Law or Taxation. DePaul is one of only a few law schools in the nation to offer this accelerated joint degree option.

The JD/LLM program offers advanced training through a personalized educational experience. Students learn directly from—and connect with—faculty experts in their area of study and are provided numerous networking opportunities with alumni and practitioners in the field. Students also benefit from the program's overall flexibility, including customized course schedules and the option to enroll at any time during the JD program. Students are permitted to simultaneously apply nine credit hours of qualifying courses toward both degrees, and may complete the JD/LLM in three years with summer enrollment.

Additional Joint Degree Programs

The College of Law has partnered with several other colleges at DePaul and a top-ranked law school in Spain to offer five joint degree programs. Each of these programs provides the optimal combination of theory and practice, interdisciplinary offerings and individualized course plans to enhance your educational experience.

GLOBAL ENGAGEMENT

EXPERIENCE DEPAUL FROM A GLOBAL PERSPECTIVE.

We live in a world in which international law, both private and public, is no longer the field reserved for a few specialized lawyers. With the United States tightly interconnected through trade, investment, migration, travel, and security to many other economies and societies, awareness of foreign legal systems and of the network of international private and public legal rules within which we operate is integral to becoming an effective lawyer.

International legal issues arise in the everyday practice of law in such common and diverse fields as family law, intellectual property, immigration, contracts and sales, tax, real estate, wills and trusts, and civil litigation involving parties located outside the United States.

Courses and Experiences

At DePaul College of Law, we appreciate the importance of students acquiring a “global disposition,” a perspective that will enable them to be the most effective problem-solvers in a world that is increasingly and inevitably interconnected.

As such, we offer an array of courses and experiences, including

- International Law Courses spanning public international law, international business law, and international human rights
- Study Abroad Programs in Madrid, Spain; Berlin, Germany; San Jose, Costa Rica; Buenos Aires, Argentina; and Havana, Cuba
- International Exchange Programs (semester or yearlong programs) in Vienna, Austria; Dublin, Ireland; and Madrid, Spain
- International Experiential Learning Opportunities, including practicums in International Human Rights
- International Joint Degree Program (JD and LL.M. in International Business Law) in Madrid, Spain

We also have internationally-focused centers and institutes—the International Human Rights Law Institute (IHRLI) and Center for Art, Museum & Cultural Heritage Law (CAMCHL)—that support students who wish to pursue particular areas of international law as their professional path.

“THROUGH DEPAUL’S INTERNATIONAL PROGRAMS, I EXPANDED MY KNOWLEDGE OF INTERNATIONAL LAW MECHANISMS AND AFFIRMED MY ASPIRATIONS TO PURSUE A CAREER IN INTERNATIONAL LAW. MY DIVERSE TRAVEL EXPERIENCE BETTER POSITIONED ME TO SEEK EMPLOYMENT IN INTERNATIONAL INSTITUTIONS WHERE INTERNATIONAL EXPERIENCE AND KNOWLEDGE ARE REQUIRED. DEPAUL IS TRULY UNIQUE IN THAT IT OFFERS A LARGE VARIETY OF INTERNATIONAL PROGRAMS TO STUDENTS.”

ADMISSION INFORMATION

DePaul University derives its name and fundamental mission from St. Vincent de Paul, who devoted his life to helping the disadvantaged lead dignified lives. At the College of Law, we seek diversity in students' special talents, qualities, interests and socioeconomic and cultural backgrounds. Having students with different interests, goals, life experiences and backgrounds is critical in order to ensure the robust exchange of ideas that is called for in training lawyers and potential leaders. Toward this end, we seek a student body that exhibits outstanding academic and professional promise with varied backgrounds and experience. DePaul University College of Law also is committed to improving the legal community by educating students who will serve the public and legal profession in ways that enhance the social, economic, cultural and ethical values in the broader community.

Electronic Application Process

All applicants to the College of Law must submit all materials electronically through the Law School Admission Council (LSAC) and register with the LSAC Credential Assembly Service (CAS). We only accept applications submitted through LSAC. You can access the LSAC Electronic Application and corresponding application instructions at law.depaul.edu or LSAC.org.

Disabled applicants in need of a reasonable accommodation to complete the application process should contact the Office of Law Admissions at (312) 362-6831 or email lawinfo@depaul.edu with their request.

There is no application fee for the JD program.

Admission Policy

Admission to DePaul University College of Law is competitive. We consider numerous factors in evaluating each applicant, including undergraduate academic performance, Law School Admission Test (LSAT) scores, advanced degrees, professional work experience, writing ability, potential for leadership, professional and academic recommendations, and a student's special talents, qualities, interests, and socioeconomic and cultural background. No single factor is dispositive when determining admission. Personal qualities that demonstrate intellectual depth, high ideals and diligence also are considered, as are economic, societal or educational obstacles that have been successfully overcome.

Diversity in background and experience among the members of each entering class is a continuing objective. Having a diverse student body allows us to encourage and foster the exchange of different ideas. In addition, a candidate's prior relations with the DePaul University community and her or his potential for furthering DePaul's institutional goals are considered.

Applications are reviewed on a rolling basis and early application is highly recommended, especially for those who desire merit scholarship and financial aid consideration.

For first-year applicants with no previous law school credit, admission is granted only for the Autumn semester. First-year applicants should ensure that their application and all necessary documents are on file in the Office of Law Admissions prior to the suggested application deadline of March 1.

Prospective students who have, or will have, received their baccalaureate degrees from accredited institutions prior to July of the year for which admission is sought are eligible to apply. In no event will anyone who has yet to receive a baccalaureate degree be permitted to enroll in the College of Law. No specific fields of study are prescribed at the baccalaureate level.

It is the policy of DePaul University that no person shall be the object of discrimination or harassment on the basis of race, color, ethnicity, religion, sex, gender, gender identity, sexual orientation, national origin, age, marital status, pregnancy, parental status, family relationship status, physical or mental disability, military status, genetic information or other status protected by local, state, or federal law in its employment or its educational settings.

Application Instructions

LETTER OF RECOMMENDATION

One letter of recommendation is required for all applicants. Additional letters are welcome. Recommendations from an applicant's college professors are particularly useful. Recommendations also may be submitted by employers or colleagues who are in positions to make critical and informed appraisals of an applicant's qualifications.

PERSONAL STATEMENT

The required personal statement should not exceed two pages, and may provide the Admissions Committee with information regarding such matters as intellectual interests and pursuits; personal, family or educational background; experiences and talents of special interest; reasons for applying to law school as they may relate to personal goals and professional expectations; or any other factors that will assist the committee's evaluation of the applicant's candidacy for admission. Applicants also may describe, either within the personal statement or as an addendum, how their admission would contribute to the diversity of the College of Law.

RÉSUMÉ

A current résumé is strongly recommended and should not exceed two pages. It should include a complete employment record and identify honors, scholarships and commendations received; membership in any scholastic, honorary and professional associations; as well as community, volunteer and extracurricular activities.

LAW SCHOOL ADMISSION TEST (LSAT) / CREDENTIAL ASSEMBLY SERVICE (CAS)

All applicants must take the LSAT. DePaul will accept LSAT scores taken within five years prior to the date of application. In addition, all applicants must register with CAS through LSAC and submit the required undergraduate transcripts.

Joint Degree Programs

Those seeking a joint degree with a program outside of the law school first must apply and be accepted for admission to the College of Law. Admission is made to the appropriate joint degree program only after completion of the first-year core curriculum in the College of Law with above average academic achievement. A separate application may be required for each program and should be submitted during the first year of law school. In addition, an entrance exam such as the GRE or GMAT may be required depending on the requirements of the program to which the applicant is applying.

International Applicant Information

Applicants who have earned degrees or received diplomas from foreign institutions must submit all materials required of first-time JD applicants. In addition, international applicants should submit their foreign transcripts through LSAC's CAS. Foreign transcripts received will be authenticated and analyzed. We will also accept detailed evaluation reports from any member of the National Association of Credential Evaluation Services (NACES). Applicants who were educated in foreign countries, at institutions where English is not the primary language, must also register for the TOEFL (TOEFL.org) or IELTS (IELTS.org).

Transfer Applicant Information

DePaul University College of Law welcomes applications from students who will have completed, within the preceding two years, at least one year of study at another ABA-accredited law school. Transfer applicants may apply for admission to the day and evening programs during the autumn and spring semesters. Transfer applicants admitted to the College of Law may receive up to 30 hours of credit toward the JD degree.

Transfer applicants are required to submit the following: transfer student application form available on LSAC, one letter of recommendation from a law school professor, resume, personal statement, current LSAC CAS report, a letter of good standing indicating eligibility to return from all previously attended law schools, and law school transcripts from all previously attended law schools. In evaluating transfer applicants, the Admissions Committee will consider the applicant's undergraduate academic record, LSAT score, law school grades, personal statement, letter of recommendation and other information requested in the application.
