Guide to Returning to Campus
The success of our return to campus is dependent upon all of us looking out for each other and making decisions for our own health and safety as well as the health and safety of others. When necessary, remind one another to wear masks and keep distance.

All faculty, staff, and students are bound by DePaul’s Community Health and safety pledge. Those who do not abide by the safety rules may be subject to discipline by the university.
Before you come to campus,

Make sure you log in to #CampusClear and answer all of the questions honestly, accurately.

Once you submit your answers, the app will tell you whether you’re “Good to Go!”

Wear your mask

Masks that cover your nose and mouth are the go-to fashion accessory of the year. You’ll need to wear your mask at all times while on campus.
When you get to campus...

Check your building...

This term, the College of Law will be using classrooms in Lewis as well as other loop campus buildings. Make sure you know where to go:

- 14 E. Jackson/Daley Building
- DePaul Center (Barnes & Noble building)
- Lewis Center (enter on Wabash)

Got mask?

As you enter, staff will be there to check for masks and your “Good to Go!” clearance from #CampusClear. Extra masks will be available at the entrance if you forgot yours.

Give space

Staff in the lobby will be there to help everyone maintain social distance and control the flow of people for elevators and stairs.
Life in Lewis

Sanitizer
Throughout campus, you will notice many new sanitizer stations. Use them to clean your hands and/or use the sanitizer with paper towels to clean your space.

Restrooms
Restroom occupancy has not been reduced; maintain social distance to the extent possible. Facilities operations will be propping open some main doors to reduce touch points.

Student Lounges
Indoor and outdoor spaces are being reconfigured to allow for student use, while also promoting social distancing. Students will be able to eat and drink on the 11th floor in DePaul Center and the 2nd floor lounge in Lewis. Masks may be removed while eating or drinking.
Coming in to study?

Space will be available for students to use to study quietly or connect into an online class.

During this time, the law library will be closed to the general public, but open to students Monday through Friday. If you would like to use the library to study, please make a reservation through the Rinn Law Library homepage.

If you need a different space to connect to an online class, please contact Dean Allison Ortlieb (aortlieb@depaul.edu).

In addition to the library, both the second and seventh floor lounges will be open for students to use.

Students may not use open classrooms for individual or group study, unless assigned to the space by Dean Ortlieb.
Classroom protocols

If your classroom door is open, it means that it has been cleaned and is ready for use. Make your way into class while maintaining social distancing to the extent possible.

All of our class seats have been marked for appropriate social distancing. When you come to class, choose a seat marked with blue tape. Do not sit in seats marked with red tape.

Masks are to be worn over the nose and mouth at all times when in class. There will be no eating and drinking in classrooms at this time. If you need to eat or drink something small, step out of the classroom to do so.

Faculty will be the last to leave the class at the end of a class session. They will close the door, signaling to our cleaning crews that it is time to clean the room. Students may not stay in classrooms to eat, study, or socialize.
